

Generous Donors Support Monticello's Mission of Education and Preservation

In 2002 the Thomas Jefferson Foundation dedicated two significant additions to the Monticello environs – the Jefferson Library and the

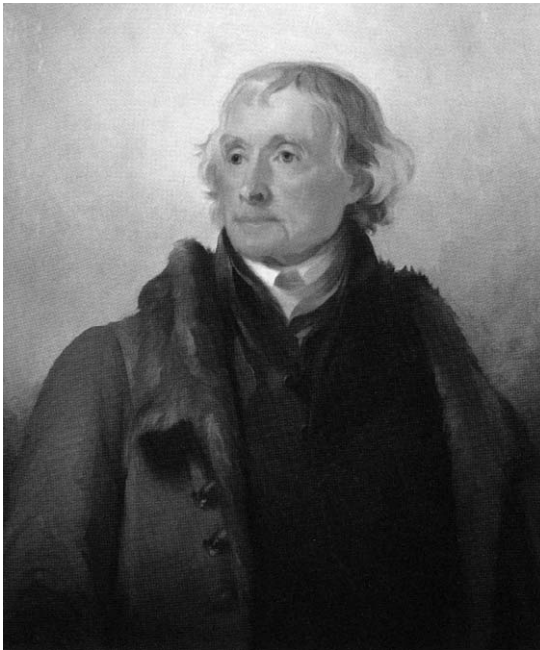

Thomas Jefferson Parkway (including Saunders Bridge, Kemper Park, and the Saunders-Monticello Trail). Monticello's Entrance Hall was transformed with the re-creation of Jefferson's "Indian Hall," a special exhibition commemorating the bicentennial of the Lewis and Clark Expedition that will remain in place throughout 2003. We welcomed 16 fellows from five countries and seven states to study at the International Center for Jefferson Studies, and made important progress on the restoration of Monticello's kitchen and dependencies. More than 120,000 school-children visited the mountaintop in 2002 and approximately 15,000 students participated in our education programs. And, as we have done almost every day for the past 79 years, we welcomed visitors from across the country and around the globe eager to learn about the life and times of Thomas Jefferson.

Thanks to the individuals, foundations, corporations, and organizations listed on these pages, the Thomas Jefferson Foundation achieved a record $1,622,000 in its annual fund. These gifts are fundamental to the day-to-day operations of Monticello and its varied programs. At this time of economic uncertainty, when our budgets are tighter than ever, we are especially grateful for the outpouring of generosity in direct support of our dual mission of education and preservation. The Foundation finished the year with $6,007,680 in total gift income.

Our ambitions remain high and our goal remains excellence. The Thomas Jefferson Foundation thanks all of its donors for their interest and generosity. We continue to believe that the ideas and ideals of Thomas Jefferson are more important now than ever before, and with the help of our donors we are committed to advancing the Jeffersonian legacy.

The Monticello Fund

The Thomas Jefferson Foundation gratefully recognizes the donors, at all levels, who made gifts to the Monticello Fund from Jan. 1 through Dec. 31, 2002.
