THOMAS JEFFERSON’S Legacy

THOMAS JEFFERSON is best remembered as the author of the Declaration of Independence. The idea that “all men are created equal” with a right to “Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness” established the foundations of self-government and personal liberty in America. Jefferson’s eloquent words of 1776 continue to inspire people of all ages around the world today. Today, Jefferson’s home remains a touchstone for all who seek to explore the enduring meaning of what it means to be an American and a citizen of the world. Since 1923, the Thomas Jefferson Foundation has been dedicated to preserving Monticello, a UNESCO World Heritage Site, and sharing Jefferson’s home and ideas with the world.

Giving to Monticello

As a private, nonprofit organization, the Thomas Jefferson Foundation receives no government funding for Monticello’s general operations, and visitor ticket sales cover less than 50 percent of our operating costs. The Foundation relies on the private support of donors like you to accomplish our mission of preservation and education.

EACH YEAR:

- Close to 440,000 people visit Jefferson’s mountaintop home—the only home in America recognized by the United Nations as a World Heritage Site.
- More than 2.7 million visit our website, monticello.org.
- Monticello’s K-12 guided student field trips serve more than 60,000 students.
- More than 153,000 walkers, runners and bikers enjoy the Saunders-Monticello Trail.
- The Center for Historic Plants sells seeds and plants to over 18,000 people, preserving horticultural heritage.

With each gift we can learn and share more about Thomas Jefferson, his life at Monticello and his impact on our world.

Gifts to Monticello Make an Impact

This January, inspired by Jefferson’s legacy and in service to our twofold mission of preservation and education, Monticello kicked off the year with educational programming for Virginia public school students through the My Monticello exhibition and the Daily Life at Monticello program for the Richmond City Public Schools.

My Monticello included artwork from over 300 third-grade students from Charlottesville City public schools who visited Monticello to learn about Thomas Jefferson’s love of gadgets and design. The exhibition program, now in its ninth year, is supported by the Wells Fargo Foundation and the Hunter Smith Family Foundation.

The Daily Life at Monticello program brings 1,800 fourth graders from all 28 Richmond City Public Schools to Monticello for a free four-hour lesson that explores the lives of Thomas Jefferson, his family and Monticello’s free and enslaved plantation community through objects that illustrate their stories. As a participating fourth-grade teacher from Westover Hills Elementary explained, “Today brought our curriculum to life and made a historical figure real beyond Internet capabilities.” Support over the years for the Daily Life at Monticello program for the Richmond City Public Schools has come from Dr. and Mrs. Steven E. Epstein, the Hunter Smith Family Foundation, Virginia H. Spratley Charitable Fund of The Community Foundation Serving Richmond and Central Virginia, Verizon Foundation, Windsor Foundation Trust, and Altia Group, Inc.
Honor Roll of Donors

The Thomas Jefferson Foundation gratefully acknowledges the donors who made gifts to Monticello over the period Jan. 1 to Dec. 31, 2013. These contributions supported the Monticello Annual Fund, restricted programs and research, and included gifts of cash, contributed services and property and gifts-in-kind.

Gifts to Monticello Make an Impact

As Thomas Jefferson wrote to his daughter Martha Jefferson Randolph, “I never before knew the full value of trees ... What would I not give that the trees planted nearest round the house at Monticello were full grown.”

Thanks to the combined efforts of the Boy Scouts, Charlottesville Area Mountain Bike Club and the Thomas Jefferson Foundation, a new trail connection planted with a diverse collection of trees has recently been opened along the Saunders-Monticello Trail. The new Eagle Scout Trail connects the Hartman-Orchard Trail with the Saunders-Monticello Trail. Approximately one mile long, the Eagle Scout Trail features eight switchbacks that gently bisect the steep hillsides. Along the new trail visitors can see ferns, rhododendrons and hardwoods, as well as mountain views in the winter.

Fifteen-year-old Graham Haynie, a Life Scout with local troop 37, started the Eagle Scout Trail for the Thomas Jefferson Foundation as a step toward his Eagle Scout badge. The path was soon noticed by members of the CAMBC, who offered their expertise and energy to help complete the project.

Gifts to Monticello Make an Impact

SUPPORT FROM OUR COMMUNITY

NEW PARTNERSHIP WITH KESWICK HALL

Charlottesville’s historic Keswick Hall and the Thomas Jefferson Foundation are pleased to announce a new partnership. Starting this year, Keswick Hall will donate $2 from each hotel stay as an unrestricted gift to the Monticello Annual Fund. Keswick Hall is a resort and 48-room mansion nestled on a 600-acre estate near Monticello. Keswick Hall offers breathtaking mountain views and a wide variety of amenities, including tennis, swimming, fitness, archery, garden and history tours, fly fishing, hot air ballooning, regionally inspired dining and a new Pete Dye golf course, which will open in late summer 2014.

“Monticello is grateful for this dedicated support from one of our esteemed neighbors,” said Development Director Joshua Scott. “These ongoing contributions will enable the Foundation to advance our dual mission of preservation and education.”
