No. 4
The Life and Letters of Thomas Jefferson
By FRANCIS W. HIRST, Eminent English Historian
"Within the compass of a single substantial volume Mr. Hirst has made a contribution to Jeffersonian literature which will unquestionably become the standard 'Life' in Great Britain, replacing the abused and vindictive picture drawn by Mr. J. S. Oliver in 1907. . . . He has presented us with an interpretation, an evaluation of Jefferson's ideas, his influence, his place in the torturous and often disheartening struggle of man to govern himself under a democracy."—HELEN AND DAVID LOTHROP, in the Outlook.
Bound in cloth, 344 pages with illustrations.....$4.00 per copy

No. 5
The Story of Monticello
Told by THOMAS L. RHODES to Frank B. Lord.

No. 6
Monticello and Its Master
By JOHN S. PATTON, for many years Librarian of the University of Virginia.

The New York Times
Magazine Section Sunday, Oct. 26, 1924

"Of interest to lovers of old furniture, as well as to those who revere the name of Monticello is the recent purchase by Mr. Ford of a number of Jeffersonian furniture. Authentic pieces have been made of the music rack that Jefferson designed of the pair of Sheraton card tables and the small tilt-top table that was purchased by Jefferson by his mother in Williamsburg. Mr. Ford has had the originals even in details such as the indentions of rack pieces in the mahogany tilt-top table, have been developed under the direction of the Foundation. A certificate stating that it is an official reproduction is pasted on each piece.

Although the sale of these pieces gifts in the upkeep of the mansion, distribution has a larger essential purpose behind it. It is the first discriminating reproduction of the actual furniture used by Thomas Jefferson the memory of a great man will be vivified constantly in every home where one of these pieces is preserved. One may imagine little Tom Randolph practicing his scales on the original even in details such as the indentions of rack pieces in the mahogany tilt-top table, have been developed under the direction of the Foundation. A certificate stating that it is an official reproduction is pasted on each piece.
